G.N.C.A. Urges Retention Of WPA Headquarters Here

Group In Capital To Ask Revision Of Thursday Order

CONSOLIDATION IDEA AGREED TO

Believe New Castle Should Be Retained As Headquarters For New District

Fifteen prominent New Castle citizens, all Greater New Castle Association leaders, today are urging the Pennsylvania Works Progress Administration to establish its new Northwestern Pennsylvania Area Headquarters here instead of in Franklin.

To See Mathews

This afternoon at 1, in Harrisburg, the delegation was to present its case before Col. Philip A. Mathews, new WPA administrator for the state, who yesterday announced that New Castle's present district office would be combined with Erie's office and an "area office" opened in Franklin.

Col. Mathews was reached by telephone early last evening and today's 1 o'clock appointment arranged.

The order to abandon the local office came as an outright surprise not only to public officials and others here but to the WPA office force as well.

Moving quickly, President Norman E. Clark of the Greater New Castle Association called several GNCA leaders to an emergency discussion late yesterday afternoon.

So far none of the candidates has announced a barbecue, but the campaign is still young. Experience has shown that when the voter cannot be convinced in any other manner, the best way to reach him is with a hunk of roasted ox.

Be careful what you do around the kiddies. They are great imitators. Yesterday Pa Newc saw a little boy and a girl on a bicycle. It was all dolled up with ribbons, and on the back was a card, "just married."

With summer rays of the warm sunshine beating down, ones mind naturally turns to splashing around in the water. The dam on Croton avenue has been kept busy and echoes of young voices can be heard over the constant purring of motor vehicles, and clanking trucks passing by, all hours of the day. Seems to be a popular spot for little tots seeking relief from the heat.

'Let's Go On A Picnic" is the current call as mid-summer heat makes us yearn for the cool seclusion of fern-lined nooks and running brooks. All in this carefree manner, lunch hampers — play clothes—and romantic notions of conquering the great open spaces, spin their alluring web and so—A picnic it is! Such groups of pleasure seekers can be found in numbers at recreation parks and country spots, as well as favorite beaches and camp sites, along the Slippery Rock.

One member said "We are willing to go along with either Senator Taft or Governor Bricker."

Offer Proposal For Settlement Of Motor Strike

Representatives Of General Motors And Auto Workers Agree To Plan

UNION COUNCIL TO CONSIDER IT

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—A proposal to end the riot-marked month-old strike of C. I. O. skilled workers against General Motors Corporation, and thereby permit G. M. to resume preparations for 1940 model automobiles, was agreed upon by representatives of the corporation and the C. I. O. Auto Workers Union today.

The union representatives were to present the proposal to a joint council of strikers today. If the council ratifies the plan, the membership in each of the 12 plants affected by the strike will vote on the settlement plan Saturday morning.

Acceptance of the peace proposal by the council and the strikers would permit G. M. to resume operations in its tool and die shops Monday morning. A corporation spokesman said the strike already has set back two weeks the preparations for the new models, and will mean that the corporation's 150,000 production workers will go back to their jobs two weeks late. Most of the production workers are idle now for the summer changeover.

Federal Labor Conciliator James F. Dewey, who has worked with the negotiators four weeks, announced the settlement plan shortly after midnight today. The negotiators had been in continuous session since 10 a. m. yesterday.

Showers Bring Welcome Relief

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4.—A lashing, hop-skipping thunderstorm brought welcome relief to sweltering Central and Northeastern Pennsylvanians today but left in its wake a trail of death and destruction as two persons died from lightning and heavy property damage resulted.

Six-year-old Leo Pobutkiewicz, Kingston, Luzerne county, was struck by lightning and torn from his mother's arms while attending an athletic meet of the Wyoming Valley Playground association. The boy's mother, Elizabeth, was seriously injured by the bolt and 15 other persons, mostly children, were burned and shocked.

Myrl Sarver, 53-year-old Perry county farmer, was instantly killed when a bolt of lightning struck him as he led two mules to shelter on his farm. Both mules were felled by the bolt.

Chicago Girl Is Slain On Street

Hindu Frustrated In Love Affair Shoots Girl Down As She Nears Her Hotel

QUICKLY ARRESTED BY CHICAGO POLICE

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—A swarthy, 100-pound Hindu who loved and lost a Chicago girl told police today he was glad he killed her because, without her he could find no peace.

The Hindu, John Mohan, 42, killed Helen Chertos before 100 persons on a busy street corner yesterday, shooting her once in the neck and three times more in the head after she had fallen to the sidewalk.

He left her side calmly and began to walk away with the crowd at his heels. He unloaded his .38 special police pistol and was reloading it when police, who had heard the shots, arrested him.

The girl, 23, an entertainer known as Helen Ross, was met by Mohan as she approached her hotel. She knew he was after her, and knew that he was awaiting her at the hotel. A friend in a beauty shop had seen Mohan and warned her not to leave the shop alone.

Known Girl Year

Mohan, a native of Punjab, India, had known the girl a year. A month ago they fought because he saw her with another man. Two days ago he pleaded with her to return to him, but she refused. He said he would have killed her then if he had his pistol.

Yesterday he spotted her in a waffle shop. He paced outside the shop for nearly half an hour, but she saw him and refused to leave. He went to her hotel, half a block away, and she went across the street to a beauty parlor. He ambushed her as she walked from the parlor to her hotel, shooting her without a word.

Firemen Succeed In Saving Grain Storage Bins From Explosion

POLICEMEN STAY CROWD OF CURIOUS

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—A spectacular 5-11 alarm fire which swept through the seven-story plant of the Northwestern Malt & Grain company was brought under control today after raging for four hours.

Hundreds of firemen succeeded in keeping the flames away from 25 grain storage bins, thus preventing a possible explosion.

Damage was estimated at $100,000.

Only one man was in the building when the blaze was discovered. He escaped and turned in the alarm.

More than 100 policemen were required to keep back a crowd of 2,000 persons who flocked to the scene.

Every precaution was taken to keep everyone away from the plant, which covers two square blocks. Firemen said the silos might explode.

G. W. Hales, president of the Hales & Hunter company, feed manufacturers, and parent company of the grain concern, said the plant contained 15,000 bushels of finished malt for brewers and 800,000 bushels of grain.

Cause of the fire was not known.

Report Of Audit Of County Books Now Made Public

Figures Show Net Shortage Of Former Treasurer Hartland, $11,215.69

$9,545.49 CLAIMED DUE FROM W. O. PITTS

Both Charges And Credits Reported In Accounts Of Tax Collectors

County Controller Frank W. Hill, has presented to the county commissioners the result of the audit made by Wolfe and Company, certified public accountants, of the books of former treasurer, Joseph H. Hartland, former treasurer, Wm. O. Pitts, and tax collectors. Hill has also presented a subsequent audit of matters which developed after Wolfe and Company had finished their work.

The audit made by Wolfe and Company shows a total shortage in the accounts of Joseph H. Hartland of $10,178.28. This amount is exclusive of $7000 deposited by Hartland in the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company after the auditors began on the county books, and also the sum of $2,151, which was found in the county treasurer's vault, believed to have been returned as restitution.

At the completion of the Wolfe and Company report, it showed liens outstanding against property owners. Letters asking for a verification of these amounts were sent out under the supervision of County Controller Hill. The results of these letters as of July 31, 1939, developed a further shortage amounting to $1,037.41. This, added to the results of the Wolfe and Company audit, make a net shortage of $11,215.69 in the Hartland account, as of the date named above.

In connection with the accounts of former treasurer, William O. Pitts, the county had filed a claim for $9,459.06. Subsequent to the filing of this suit, County Controller Hill developed an additional shortage of $86.43.

Young Republicans Consider Revolt

May Run Ticket For Delegates

Young Leaders Charge Insufficient Patronage For Their Organization

NOT YET PLEDGED TO JAMES IN 1940

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4.—A contest within the Republican party in Pennsylvania between liberal and conservative elements for control of the state delegation to the 1940 national convention today is taking shape.

With state organization leaders agreed on Gov. Arthur H. James as the state's "favorite son" candidate for president, an attempt is now being made to head off a threatened revolt by the politically-strong young Republican group.

Not Yet On Wagon

The young Republicans, with 283,000 members, represent the most liberal element within the Republican party in Pennsylvania. Despite speeches by invited speakers to the young Republican convention held last week at Conneaut Lake Park booming James for president, young Republican leaders have not as yet climbed aboard the James-for-president bandwagon.

Instead, they have announced their intention of entering candidates in next year's primary for delegates and alternates to the G. O. P. national convention who will be pledged to support a liberal candidate for president. The Pennsylvania delegation is, next to New York's, the nation's largest.

Candidates will be entered in all districts in which the young G. O. P. feels it stands a chance to win, even if it means bucking candidates backed by the state organization, it was asserted.

This is what state organization leaders would like to prevent if possible and attempts are being made to dissuade the young Republicans from going through with their announced plans in an effort to present a solid front at the national convention for Governor James.

Resent Hines Speech

Young Republican leaders, already aroused over what they feel is insufficient patronage recognition from the older organization, are represented as being nettled over what they regard as an attempt by a James cabinet official to link their organization with the James-for-president boom.

In young Republican circles the speech of Secretary of Labor and Industry Lewis G. Hines at Conneaut Lake park praising James as a presidential candidate was represented as "falling flat." The same, it was said, went for a similar announcement by Mrs. Marjorie M. Scranton, G. O. P. national committeewoman from Scranton, shortly before the convention actively got under way.

While the young G. O. P. convention did not put itself on record, there was considerable undercurrent support for the position taken by Ralph Becker, regional director of the National Young Republican Federation, who charged the Pennsylvania Republican organization had become ultra-conservative and urged the young Republicans to support a more liberal program.

developed delinquent tax collections accounts, which showed some accounts due the county; in other case, through errors, overpayments were made to the county. In the list below the word, "charge" means the amount due the county, and "credit" the amount of over payment to the county by tax collectors:

E. E. Umbright, 1934, charge, $20.22.

All of the following are for 1935:
E. E. Umbright, charge, $543.98.
T. A. E. McConahy, credit, $5.95.
Glenn C. Martin, charge, $2.12.
E. S. Shaffer, credit, 4c.
Lee McCombs, charge, 2c.
W. W. Gilmore, credit, $3.63.
Ellis Shaffer, credit, $24.09.
John Pattison, charge, 85c.
J. C. Cunningham, credit, 26c.
The following are for 1936:
George McKenzie, credit, $24.72.
T. A. E. McConahy, charge, $4.13.
C. R. McElwain, charge, 70c.
Ellis F. Shaffer, charge, 1c.
C. R. Stevenson, charge, 1c.
Robert McClenahan, charge, 2c.
W. T. Livingston, charge, $2.10.
Roy K. Shaffer, charge, $3.00.
John D. Pattison, charge, 21c.
R. F. McGary, credit, $1.96.
J. C. Cunningham, credit, 1c.
Following are for 1937:
George McKenzie, credit, $3.03.
C. L. Zedaker, charge, $882.09.
Howard Wilson, credit, $15.
C. R. Stevenson, credit, 1c.
Le Roy Hazen, credit, 1c.
County treasurer, credit, 1c.

It is understood that some of these records have since been cleared. The amounts shown are as of the time of the audit. In addition to the above report on tax collectors, County Controller Hill found the following:

Edward E. Umbright, January 2, 1933 through December 30, 1933, charge, $24.66, and January 6, 1935 through January 4, 1936, $16.15.

Lee McCombs, Mahoning township, January 6, 1935 through January 4, 1936, charge, $2.02.

C. R. McIlwain, Ellport boro, January 6, 1936 through January 3, 1937, a charge, $26.52.

Through the audit of the county books, and the subsequent sending out of letters to delinquent taxpayers, county officials are satisfied that thousands of dollars in delinquent taxes came in that otherwise would not have been paid for a period of years.

The audit has been the most complete ever made here and has given officials a clear picture of the actual condition of county finances.

Shortages will be recovered from bonding companies, it is assumed.

One industry which seems to be growing in Lawrence county is that of poultry raising. There are two classes engaged. Those who are in it on a commercial basis, and those who merely raise enough chickens to supply home needs. Many city chaps have visions of a poultry farm, but there's more to it than that. Like anything else, one must understand the business to go into it in a big way. But for those willing to devote their time and energies, it offers a reasonable opportunity for success.

Pa Newc has it on good authority that bustles are coming back. This simple statement of fact may not mean much to the present generation, but to old timers it brings up memories of many years ago when the chief aim of a woman was to wear the biggest bustle in the neighborhood. They made them out of straw and cotton at first, but as the craze grew contraptions made of wire came into general use. They had an advantage over the cotton and straw bustles, as it was not necessary to sit on the edge of a chair. Some of the old cotton bustles were so big that the wearer did not attempt to sit down. The width varied from six inches to a foot, and some women even strapped their pickaninnies to them. Here's hoping if they do come back, the women won't look as much like dromedaries as they did in those good old days.

Pa Newc saw a man yesterday with one peeper almost closed. He explained it by saying that he is spending the summer at a camp and a mosquito bit him. We did not doubt his word for we know that mosquito bites will swell up on some people, while on others they have no effect whatever. We presume it all depends upon how much pulp is in the body.

It used to be that barking dogs and crowing roosters were the greatest disturbers of the peace and quiet of a community. Happily the roosters have been almost eliminated in New Castle, and chan-ti-cleer no longer awakens you from your slumber at midnight or early morning, but there are neighborhoods where barking dogs get on the nerves. Dogs must be kept tied to a tree or post, a monotonous life, to say the least. It is no wonder they bark. Owners can do much to relieve their distress by seeing that they are tied in shady places, taken in when it rains, given plenty of food and water. The latter should be handy at all times this hot weather. Dogs receiving proper care will do little barking and neighbors will be thankful.

With the swimming season at its height, it may not be amiss to call attention to the dangers of diving. There are two that most often result in serious injury or death. One of these is diving into water that is too shallow; the other, diving from a great height into deep water. Probably the most thrilling example of the latter hereabouts may be seen at the Harbor bridge, where swimmers jump from the top of the arch, over thirty feet into the water. There's plenty of sport in swimming, without taking hazardous chances.

Some people have a queer idea of the meaning of the Hatch Bill, recently passed by Congress and signed by the president. They believe that anyone who is working in private industry cannot solicit votes for a friend. The law affects only Federal employes, many of whom have been absenting themselves their positions to carry on campaign activities, while Old John Tax Payer has been paying his salary. It does not effect anyone in a state job. For years, local postal employes have been forbidden to campaign for votes, sell tickets for entertainments, or anything of that nature, but it has been the big fellows who have violated the law.

This morning, about a dozen N. Y. A. youths were engaged at the Lincoln and Garfield schools, in sandpapering, varnishing and covering with "masonite" a compressed wood pulp board, the desks, and tables in the building. Painting the walls, ceiling and wood work, would also do much to give a cheerier aspect to the rooms.

claim, the youth insists that he was not one of the bandits and claims he can establish an alibi.

Two persons were taken into custody Thursday by attaches of the sheriff's office. One later was released. However, relative to the one yet held it was said he was under questioning today.

Armed With Revolves

The youth held in the city jail was identified by William Francis and Don Woodworth, two of the three employes. Another employe, Sam Weinschenk said he could not identify the youth because he did not see him.

According to reports a trio of armed bandits, one masked, entered the dairy, pointed revolvers, made all the employes lie down while the money was being stolen then locked the employes in a cellar-way.

Weinschenk pressed two wires together which alarmed a man living in an apartment above the dairy. As soon as they were liberated city police were notified.

To Provide Home

In the case of Thomas W. Henderson, who was picked up here recently while driving a truck through from Chicago to New York, Judge Braham suspended a contempt of court charge, on the promise of Henderson that he would make a home for his wife in Chicago, where he has employment. Mrs. Henderson appeared in court and said that she was perfectly willing to go back with her husband, if he provides a home.

The couple had separated some time ago and Henderson had been arrested for non-support of his wife and two children. The court had ordered him to pay $30 a month, and he had done this until recently when he left town and went to Chicago.

Deaths of the Day

James Peebles

This morning at 1:30 o'clock James Peebles, prominent lifetime resident of Scott township, passed away in his home after two weeks of illness. He would have been 80 years old on September 5.

With the death of Mr. Peebles the Plaingrove United Presbyterian church has lost one of its most faithful members, and the Lawrence County Sabbath School association one of its most zealous workers.

Mr. Peebles was born in Scott township, son of Robert and Margaret Brown Peebles, on September 5, 1859, and he passed all his years on the same farm, widely known and respected by everyone. He was a member of the Plaingrove U. P. church ever since he was a boy, and was active in the Sabbath school for more than a half century. Last year at the State Sabbath School association in Clearfield Mr. Peebles was awarded the John Wanamaker medal for 50-year veterans. He was always a diligent worker in the cause of temperance and introduced a temperance resolution at the last county Sabbath school convention in New Wilmington, his friends recall. Mr. Peebles attended all the county conventions and was always an officer of the Plaingrove district.

He married Laura Pollock on January 29, 1886, and lost his wife by death December 12, 1924. Surviving are three daughters, Margaret, at home, Mrs. Sarah Brown, Scott township, and Mrs. Elvina Eckles, Los Angeles, Cal.; 11 grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. James A. MacDonald, of Youngstown, O. A brother, William, is deceased.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Plaingrove U. P. church, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with the pastor, Rev. J. C. Fulton, in charge. Interment will be made in the Plaingrove cemetery.

Infant Klingensmith

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Klingensmith, born yesterday at the residence 1216½ South Mill street, died several hours later, at 3:30 p. m.

In addition to the parents, two brothers, Donald and Clayton; two sisters, Doris and Lois, and the following grandparents survive: Mrs. Lizzie Vezay and Mr. and Mrs. F. Klingensmith. Interment was made at three o'clock this afternoon in Oak Park cemetery.

Funeral Of Mrs. Bole.

Funeral services took place at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Mahoning funeral home for the late Mrs. Margaret Bole of 203 North Ashland avenue.

Many friends, neighbors and relatives were present for the sad occasion. Beautiful flowers had been sent in Mrs. Boles' memory. Rev. D. J. Blasdell, pastor of the Mahoning Methodist church, was in charge of the services.

Pallbearers were C. Fowler, W. J. Taylor, Ed Gilbert, Ed Scanlon, J. S. Eagan and Eugene Scanlon. Interment was in Valley View cemetery.

News Briefs From City Hall

Men who gave the names of Frank Baughman and Arthur Mitchell were fined $10 today on a charge of fighting when they appeared before Acting Mayor J. L. Fink in police court.

Two hundred and forty-nine persons were arrested by city police during the month of July.

Of 249 arrests by city police in July, 107 were for violating the parking ordinance, five for breaking traffic regulations and 10 speeders were caught.

Edward S. Harrison, 721 County Line street, reported he was bitten on a leg by a dog allegedly owned by James Ross, 708 North Mercer street, Thursday morning.

The phone call to Harrisburg completed the plans and early today, as dawn was breaking, the party left in automobiles.

Economy Move

Executive Vice President Arthur H. Andrews, who presided during the emergency session and who is to take a prominent part in the Harrisburg conference, said the group aims to get the new area office assigned to New Castle, not Franklin.

"Col. Mathew's order, we believe, is based on an economy move because 10 districts or areas are being set up where 16 functioned before," he said. We're for him when it's consolidation and savings he wants, but we know New Castle, headquarters of a WPA district for years, is the city where the merged office should be located."

Andrews said he understands Franklin has no WPA office at present. The Northwestern office there would be entirely new.

Mayor Charles E. McGrath and other party leaders said the WPA staff here at the present time totals 125.

President Clark of the GNCA said "Sol. Mathews will hear our story, and I know we have good reason to ask that the office be established here."

Members Of Party

In the delegation at Harrisburg are Mayor Charles E. McGrath, President Clark and Executive Vice President Andrews of the GNCA, State Senator William J. Eroe, Jr., Assemblyman Carmi G. Preston, City Councilman Myron C. Rice and Joseph D. Alexander, President William E. Langan of the Retail Merchants' association, County Commissioner Floyd L. Cotton, Norman Freeborn, past president and leader of the New Castle Trades and Labor Assembly; John P. Brinton, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; City Engineer Glenn Throop, Sam H. McGoun, Democratic County Chairman John B. Shaw and Louis B. Round, vice president and general manager of the Pennsylvania Power Company.

ton, various chambers of commerce and industrial associations and other groups.

Includes Them All

Bridges' opinions on political science were not limitel to the United States; he included Fascism, Nazism and Communism.

He said he found a "lot of good points" in Communism, as compared to Naziism, which he singled ont for a verbal lashing.

According to Bridges, whom the government seeks to deport as an undesirable alien, Nazi merchant ships calling at the port of San Francisco unload storm troopers who attend secret bund meetings and distribute literature smuggled in from Germany.

He said:

"That's the group that advocates overthrow of the government of the United States by force and violence."

Bridges has steadfastly denied the government's accusation that he was a Communist and a conspirator in a plot for a Soviet America.

According to Bridges, the United States is now in the midst of a fierce "class struggle".

Class Warfare

When Chief Deputy U. S. Commissioner of Immigration Thomas B. Shoemaker asked the labor leader if he thought different classes of business, or society, should be arrayed against each other, Bridges said:

"It is not a question of what I think—they are! I cannot dodge it in my everyday life."

He sadi he couldn't see "anything but trouble, and trouble is going to occur."

Large corporate interests, Bridges testified, were "eating up" the small farmer, the small merchant and others.

"It is a condition before us and we have to do something about it," he continued. "It is not a question of whether you believe it or not, it is a question of facts that are before you."

This was the August session of the club. Roll call was answered by each member naming an indoor vine for window, wall or table use.

CLOSED FILES

THE Department of State has been accustomed to open its files almost down to date to a limited number of professors, students and writers desiring to conduct serious research into American diplomatic relationships. Now an order has been issued closing the files. The order reads that "in view of the contemporary international situation it will not be possible to make the confidential or unpublished files of the department of a date later than December 31, 1918, available to persons who are not officials of the United States government".

The order is, of course, of intrinsic interest to but a small number of persons, but the date is suggestive. December 31, 1918, was just a few weeks after the armistice. President Wilson arrived in France on December 13, but it was not until January, 1919, that formal discussion of the peace treaties began. In spite of all that has been written of Versailles, one must assume that there are still confidential, unpublished documents which the State Department does not at this time care to have examined further.

The period since December 31, 1918, also covers the Washington Conference on the Limitation of Armament, 1921-1922, at which the Anglo-Japanese alliance was canceled; the subsequent numerous conferences abroad further to limit naval armaments and the important, but vain, negotiations of Mr. Stimson to elicit British co-operation in resisting Japanese invasion and seizure of Manchuria in 1931.

The department resolves to take no chances in a world of suspicion, ill-feeling and fear—a world in which the Federal Bureau of Investigation reports a "marked increase" in international espionage and in which it intends to reopen three of its field offices in Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

DRY IN THE EAST

The drought which has been searing a large part of the nation has not become as widespread or as devastating as those of several years ago which laid waste a great part of the West. The loss to farm crops has, however, been substantial.

It is noteworthy that the worst effects of the drought of 1939 to date have been felt in the East. Will we now hear that Pennsylvania and New York farms never should have been carved from primeval forests? Will it be said that New England terrain never was intended to be farmed, but should have been devoted to nature in the raw?

Perhaps not. But Eastern comment upon the drought which burned up Western farm acres several years ago was ran in a similar vein. It was said repeatedly that the West should be returned to the Indians and buffalo.

Rain probably will fall again copiously in the East, just as it has in the West following many droughts. But Easterners are certainly suffering in the dry heat. The only thing they haven't experienced to date is dust storms.

LADIES OF THE DIAMOND

Columbia University has contributed its quota to the brain trusts of government, finance and politics. So who can say it is stepping out of character when it preps masterminds for baseball, in its own right an industry of not unprofitable proportions? As the bleachers view its baseball coaching course, baseball is big enough to stand it if Columbia can. And since Columbia has learned to absorb baseball in its stride, what is extraordinary about Miss Lillian Spaulding's absorbing a bit of baseball knowledge to be relayed to the future champs of Three Rivers, Michigan?

Miss Spaulding is principal of the Ruth Hopping elementary school of Three Rivers. She is a baseball fan. Gabby Hartnett is her favorite player and the Chicago Cubs are her favorite team, this last an eccentricity which Easterners find more comprehensible after studying the box score of Michigan's Governor Dickinson's solo struggle against damnation, metropolitan brand.

Women as coaches? Why not? In any case it seems to be a safe bet that Miss Spaulding and her sisters in baseball couldn't know less about the game than the Browns and the Phils.

Science says a man becomes what he eats. We've often wondered how missionaries finally got the cannibals converted.

Words Of Wisdom

It is another's fault if he be ungrateful; but it is mine if I do not give.—To find one thankful man, I will oblige a great many that are not so.—I had rather never receive a kindness than never bestow one.—Not to return a benefit is a great sin; but not to confer one is a greater.—Seneca.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

YOUR DAUGHTER'S FIRST DATES

It does not often occur to the average parent that puberty dawns in the daughter from one to two years earlier than in the son, and that because of her earlier physiological development she, as a rule, should be expected to be "boy crazy" a year or two earlier than her brother is "girl crazy."

The girl's earlier interest in the opposite sex, together with the traditional protectiveness toward the daughter by the parents, has caused them, it seems, to neglect guidance of their son. They forever warn their daughter against the barbarism of boys, but are little concerned about taming their own young "barbarian" properly to respect the girl. If we parents did as much to make our sons fit to be with girls as we do our daughters to be safe with boys, adolescent relationships would become more wholesome.

None the less, we know our daughters do need protection, and need it most right after sex-maturing. Since a great many parents don't protect their daughters adequately in the early teens, your daughter or mine may think we are very old-fashioned, even unreasonable, when we don't let her, at 12 13, or 14, go places all alone with a boy friend.

"All the other girls have this privilege," is the almost universal complaint. But let us not be frightened by this cry.

Not All Safe

Not all daughters at so early age are entirely safe with such privilege. I wish parents, years before the daughter approaches puberty, even in the child's infancy, would prepare to meet the problems of this critical period. There are two major essentials: one, that parental authority be well established years before; another, that the mother earn the confidence and companionship of her daughter.

Whether the daughter shall properly be allowed to have "dates" at 14, 15 or later will depend upon how well this mother-daughter comradeship has been cultivated, and upon the degree of responsibility and dependability the daughter has acquired.

The wise mother, carefully studying her daughter, will have an understanding with her as to when she may expect to have "dates." In the meanwhile, this mother will provide many opportunities for her daughter to have, under adequate protection, social contacts with many boys. Accordingly, ways will be devised for attracting numerous boys as well as girls to the home.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

ETON

Eton is a famous school for boys in England, with age-old traditions. Every year on June 4th they have a celebration known as "Ad Montem." This celebration, for generations, has been attended by English kings and queens. This year for the first time in many years, of course, there was no king and queen present, because of their American trip.

To American school boys Rugby is famous because of the story, "Tom Brown's School Days At Rugby." Eton is famous for its boating song, which I think every oarsman of every college crew in England and America knows—a wonderful song, commencing:

"Jolly boating weather,
With a hay harvest breeze,
Blades on a feather,
Your body between your knees,
Swing, swing, together,
Your body between your knees."

And ending:

"Twenty years hence such weather,
We may be off our stools,
We may be slow on the feather,
And the boys, they may call us fools,
But still we'll swing together,
And swear by the best of schools."

The school was founded in 1440 by Henry VI, a statue of whom stands in the school yard. It was founded, originally, for the benefit of poor boys, who "had brains but no means of higher education." It was endowed by the king and to this day still offers education to some seventy-five boys who are still known as "king's scholars," attaining entrance to Eton through scholarships.

At this annual celebration, the rising generation, the present and the past are all represented. Every boy dons his "topper" and "tails" or Eton jacket and is equipped with a tightly rolled umbrella, after the style of Prime Minister Chamberlain, as it sometimes rains in England, even in June.

There are always speeches in "upper school" and usually a cricket match. Sisters, mother and cousins always wear their very smartest frocks. There is a procession of boats, the rowers wearing the Eighteenth Century sailors' costumes and flower-decked straw hats. The coxswains are dressed as admirals, with cocked hats, and then the students have a big afternoon tea in their rooms, and there are usually fireworks in the evening.

The late Queen Victoria who always took a great interest in Eton, observed her diamond jubilee in 1897, and the whole school, about one thousand students, marched in torchlight procession and were graciously welcomed by the queen.

Among notables who attended Eton as boys were W. E. Gladstone, Lord Cornwallis, Sir William Pitt, the Duke of Wellington and of late years, Sir Anthony Eden, and the present king's brother, the Duke of Kent. The Duke of Windsor was not at Eton, but I believe he, King George the VI, then Duke of York, and the Duke of Gloucester, all went to Osborne Naval Training School, where they had the same discipline and absolute lack of favoritism, as they would have had at Eton.

It has been truly said, "the Battle of Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:14. Sun rises tomorrow 4:59.

Now the Hints and Dints man really does want something he will pay for gladly, and it's a few Scarlet Sage plants. It may be a bit late but we will take a chance if we get some, no matter in what shape they are in. If you have any call us at The News office.

Why all the excitement about seeing or hearing from Mars? We have enough trouble now without looking for new places where people might live.

We have always heard that walking under a ladder was bad luck. We watched 30 people the other day pass a raised ladder and only one walked around it. Maybe it was because it was a hot day and people did not want to exert themselves enough to walk around.

WHAT MAKES A CITY?

Among community institutions most prized and proudly displayed three are especially outstanding: Good churches, good schools and good streets. People talk of prominent citizens, but first and last are concerned with their churches, schools and streets.

The town or city seeking a greater population can not better obtain that end than by building modern streets, providing their children with suitable school buildings and erecting monumental church edifices. Ask the prospective citizen what he would demand for his adopted community and he will say without hesitation, schools, churches and streets, the best that money can buy.

Until it has provided the best in these three necessities of modern life no community has done its full duty to its citizens.

Careless truck drivers are building up a lot of trouble for themselves. Some never obey any traffic rules and park their cars across streets blocking traffic just in order to keep them from walking a few more steps. It's their business.

TODAY'S STORYETTE

A well known attorney always was lecturing his office boy whether he needed it or not. One day he chanced to hear the following conversation between his office boy and the one employed next door:

"How much does your boss pay you?" asked the latter.

"I get $1,500 a year," came the reply, "$5 a week in cash and the rest in legal advice."

A Pittsburgh man was arrested for taking $1,100 from the safe of his mother-in-law, but was discharged in court for lack of evidence. Wonder what finger he would wiggle at his ma-in-law?

Lots of times the fellow who doesn't get what's coming to him has the most luck.

BUYING AT HOME

Ordinarily, the man who consistently patronizes home trade is the thrifty, dependable and successful citizen. He is known as a civic booster and he grows up with his town and prospers as it prospers.

The fly-by-night citizen, the unsettled, dissatisfied individual is usually the one who buys away from home. He buys elsewhere because his home town means little to him. He is a drifter through life, no matter whether he be a town man or a farmer, a mere moth attracted by a far-away flame. He has no evident prosperity of his own because he has not joined forces with prosperity. In other words, he has not identified himself with those things that build up the community and help to make for wealth, progress and contentment.

Wonder what the old fashioned farmer would think now if he could see the rubber tired farm machinery and the rubber tired wheelbarrow? Most everything is rubber-tired now including the sneak thieves.

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES

Two club members were having a heated argument in a city club lounge. Every moment their words became more and more personal.

Finally one said: "You've enough tin in your head to make a kettle."

"And you've enough water in yours to fill it," came the retort.

Another member, who had listened to the futile argument in disgust, rose to his feet and said: "Both of you brutes have enough gas to boil it." And the other two were speechless.

A motherless girl with whom I went to school was shamed and abused by a drunken father, who became a criminal and went to jail for the rest of his life. I got a letter from her the other day. To lose her identity, she moved to a city 500 miles away, worked up to a good secretarial position under a new name, accumulated some antiques, including silhouettes in Colonial wigs and one second-hand portrait of an old fellow in clothes. These personages pass as her ancestors. "But I have lately met THE man. When he proposes should I tell him who I really am?" she asks me.

What do you think, my readers? Write and tell me.

At last they neared the end of the round.

What's What At A Glance

Lewis May Regret Garner Attack
May Result In Garner's Nomination
Would Put Labor Leader In Tight Box

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—If Vice President Garner wins the next Democratic White House nomination, it's the consensus in political Washington that he'll have John L. Lewis, more than any other single individual, to thank for it.

Plenty of news commentators already have said as much, but they haven't made it strong enough. To be sure, the Texan was a Democratic mentionee when John L. undertook to jump on him, but he wasn't an overwhelmingly prominent one. John L., however, turned the limelight on him to such an affect that darned if he isn't the most conspicuous of the bunch, barring third-term possibilities. Indeed, it's whispered that President Roosevelt emphatically wishes that John L. hadn't said what he did. There's no proving this gossip, but it sounds probable. Even if F. D. doesn't care to be renominated, he certainly wouldn't pick Garner as his successor. And he assuredly isn't the politician not to realize that John L. gave "Cactus Jack's" candidacy a tremendous fillip.

Lots of Lewis' own friends confess themselves at a loss to account for the C. I. O chieftain's outburst. They indorse their leader's dislike of Garner, but they deplore the fashion in which he expressed himself. I've talked with a good many of them, without finding an exception. If he'd told them in advance how he was going to "blow up", as a witness before the house of representatives' labor committee, I'm convinced that they'd have advised him strongly against it. The chances are, though, that John L.'s ebullition wasn't premeditated; that he simply exploded involuntarily. Normally his judgment is all right. It's good betting that now he regrets his effervescence. He must have his regrets, considering the public reaction to it.

It wasn't so much what Lewis said that was all wrong; it was the way he said it.

Language All Wrong

For instance, he called "Cactus Jack" a "labor-baiter". It would have been o. k. to refer to him as anti-labor", but "labor-baiter" is too technical. Who cares if he drinks a little whisky and plays a bit of poker?—if so. Senator Sheppard, author of the Eighteenth amendment, and Governor Dickinson of Michigan reply that it doesn't matter.

And that he's an "evil old man' is a manifest exaggeration. Old?—yes. But not necessarily, it's a cinch that numerous folk will testify, so frightfully "evil".

Moreover, "evil" is a kind of a dictionary; literary, biblical term that it's doubtful if a rough-neck labor leader should have at his tongue's end. It's too intellectual. If he'd said that "Jack" was a "wicked old man?"—that might have passed muster. But "evil" hints at John L. as a Shakespearian scholar. It isn't calculated to make a hit with low-brows. It gives rise to remarks concerning John L.'s $100,000 home and library in Alexandria, Va. It's poor advertising for a labor leader.

A. F. of L. on the Job

It isn't alone that high-brows were antagonized by Lewis' utterances.

The American Federation of Labor is after his scalp, too.

I don't know that the A. F. of L. is overly enthusiastic for Garner, but it's a safe gamble that it likes him better than it does Lewis.

In short:

Lewis has raised heck with the Garnerites, with all "licker" drinkers, with all poker players, with all social liberalites, with all "evil old men", and he hasn't made any friends at all with anybody except prohibitionists, anti-poker players and a labor faction (a labor fraction only).

The anti-Lewis and anti-C. I. O. crowd is delighted.

The C. I. O. aggregation is correspondingly depressed—and John L. is blamed for it.

He not only gave Garner a huge boost.

He seems to have wished himself into the discard.

GROWN-UP'S DUTY

The little fellow doesn't know
The miles are sometimes far to go
And care is oft a heavy load
To bear along life's dusty road.
He plainly thinks 'tis clear as day
This world's a place wherein to play.

He thinks, and very well he may,
This life is just one round of play
And young and old and one and all
On whom his glances chance to fall
Have nothing else all day to do
But stop and play at peek-a-boo.

'Tis just as well he cannot see
How patient we are asked to be
And doesn't know the heavy care
Which now and then we're forced to bear.
He hears our merry bits of song
And thinks we're singing all day long.

He's sure we are a merry lot
Forever laughing near his cot;
So far we've never let him know
That there is such a thing as woe,
And that, as it appears to me
Is just the way it ought to be.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

Warning From The West

WASHINGTON, August 4.

BEFORE the action of the Senate in amending the already horribly complicated Social Security Act in a way to increase its complications, is forgotten, two things about the debate and the result seem worth more consideration than they got at the time.

ONE of these was the speech of Senator Sheridan Downey, of California, the other was the vote favoring his proposal to send the whole business back in the committee, with instructions to report a plan "much more generous" toward our "senior citizens" as they are called in the Townsend vocabulary, than the one contained in the Connally amendment though, if that is not modified in conference, it will mean an aditional $80,000,000, a year for old-age pensions.

SENATOR DOWNEY, it will be recalled, rode into the Senate last year on a wave of enthusiasm created by the "thirty-dollars-every-Thursday" idea and is now an ardent advocate of the Townsend Plan. Naturally, economics is not regarded as Mr. Downey's strong point and his utterance some weeks ago did not establish a reputation for him in that field. Nevertheless, careful reading of the speech in the Congressional Record reveals Mr. Downey as neither a free-spending New Dealer nor, as from the President down the New Dealers are, unperturbed by the swiftly mounting national debt.

ON the contrary, Mr. Downey drew as black a picture of the Federal financial situation as any Republican or anti-New Deal Democrat has done. "What I see," he said—"and in not longer than two or three years—is an internal breakdown of our economy more terrifying than any possibility of Asiatic or European invasion of our shores. Let the public debt increase a few years longer at the rate it has been doing, and we will see the collapse of every bank building and loan association and insurance company in the country. No one need suggest to me that we can support our bonds except by issuing printed money and inflation. Then, of course, all savings, and property rights would be destroyed, as they were in Russia and Germany.

IN addition, Mr. Downey severely indicted the Social Security Act as an unhappy experiment, inadequate, confused and unworkable. Words such as these coming from Senators Glass, Byrd, Tydings, Bailey, Adams or other anti- Administration figures would not be news. They have all spoken in similar vein many times. But coming from Mr. Downey, who ran with the Roosevelt blessing, and is supposed to be as far to the Left as, for instance, Senator Glass is to the Right, they seem significant. What they seem to mean is that in the vital matter of the general unsoundness of the Roosevelt fiscal policies and the perils to which the unrestrained spending expose the nation, there is no real difference between the conservative Democrats of the East and the Downeys of the West. Both are applied at the prospect.

ACTUALLY, the only people, who complacently view the frightening financial facts are Mr. Roosevelt himself (who once was more alarmed and alarming over debts and deficits than anyone else) and a group of radical economists, who have evolved the strange theory that deficits are healthful and debts make no difference. Even the President's Treasury aides are scared when they sit down and fairly face the situation. Of course, Mr. Downey's remedy differs from that of the conservatives. His cure is the Townsend Plan which, with its two per cent transaction tax, he advocates not only a "self-liquidating" proposition but as a relief measure.

ROUGHLY, his argument is that if only 10,000,000 of the 13,000,000 of "senior citizens" over 60 were adequately pensioned, enough jobs would be relinquished both in private industry and on WPA to solve the unemployment problem and so cut relief expenses as to enable the Treasury to regain its equilibrium. Of course, there is more to it than that. It is the regulation Townsend stuff which cannot be swallowed by those who still believe in the multiplication table, though if you push that aside it is a moving and plausible argument.

THE Downey proposal was rejected by a 47-to-18 vote. It is interesting to note the names of those who voted with him—Barbour, Frazier, Bridges, Gurney, Johnson (Cal.) Lodge, Lundeen, Nye, O'Mahoney, Reed, Schwartz, White

Hints On Etiquette

An annoying habit of many is to pay little attention to what companions are saying, but to insist upon monopolizing the conversation.

MRS. C. BIXLER ENTERTAINS GROUP

Mrs. Clarence Bixler entertained membership of the R. and R. club at her home on Adams street Thursday evening. Plans were formed for a breakfast at the Park, Wednesday morning, August 9. Mrs. Wesley Wolfe will entertain the club at a tureen dinner at her home on Harrison street, August 10.

High card score winners were Mrs. Jess Wilson and Mrs. Clarence Gillespie. Mrs. Paul Beynon assisted Mrs. Bixler with the serving of a tempting repast.

The date of the next regular meeting will be August 17 at the home of Mrs. Harold Brown on Court street.

LAWN DINNER EVENT FOR S. OF D. GROUP

Dinner on the lawn at the home of Mrs. Bertha Moser of Walmo, interested upwards of twenty members of the S. of D. society Thursday evening, the occasion being a highlight on their social calendar.

After partaking of a most delicious menu, a social time was enjoyed. For the contests, prizes fell to Mrs. Thomas Kennedy, Mrs. W. M. Crea, Mrs. Florence Cartwright, Mrs. Sol Festous, Mrs. Carl Holmes and Mrs. Marie McCreary.

Mrs. Sylvia Heath of Beaver Falls was a special guest.

I. V. D. CLASS HAS PICNIC AT CASCADE

Taft, Thomas, Tobey, Wheeler, and Wiley. From the floor it was announced that had Senator Vandenberg been present he, too, would have voted aye. Perhaps it is not fair to say these Senators voted in favor of the Townsend plan just because Mr. Downey had made his grand Townsend speech urging his proposal just before the roll call. But it is fair to say that they voted in the belief that the question of "more generous" treatment of our "senior citizens" will be a very live issue in 1940—and also with the knowledge that when Mr. Downey asserted that there were 13,000,000 of them in the country he probably was right.

Ten Ton Truck Caves In House

Ten Ton Truck Backs Into Home Of H. F. Lightner Early Today

When Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lightner of 719 Brooklyn avenue, return from Ann Arbor, Mich., to their local residence, they will discover it sadly in need of repairs, a Yankee Lines truck having backed down the steep hill in the avenue today, into the side of the house, a portion of the truck lodging in the dining room.

The side of the house was practically caved-in and considerable damage was caused the furniture. In addition, police investigator Robert Hanna reported the house was moved off some of the foundation.

The truck loaded with 10½ tons of material, was ascending the hill when the motor stalled. The driver, Adam Lepera, 1426 Imogene street, Philadelphia, endeavored to back down the hill into Mulberry street. Instead, the truck backed into the house, Hanna stated.

The driver was uninjured.

Sinking Ship SOS Thought To Be Fake

U. S. Radio Sleuths Endeavor To Track Down And Prosecute One Responsible

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Uncle Sam's radio sleuths today investigated reports of a fake S O S that sent coast guard planes on a wild-goose chase from Miami yesterday.

Technological experts of the federal communications commission who spend their time tracking down law-breakers along the ether waves concede that it is a difficult task to locate the source of a hoax distress signal.

Nevertheless, hundreds of radio "hams," amateur operators who spend most of their waking hours before home-made sets, are believed to have heard the fake call for help.

The mystery S O S supposedly came from a freighter afire off the Florida Keys. A 2,500 square-mile search revealed no trace of any such vessel.

Through the assistance of the amateurs, the FCC may be able to snare the sender of the message. Each radio operator keeps a log of his daily activities on the air, and study of these logs may help the FCC investigators in localizing the origin of the SOS.

From then on it is a matter of investigating each broadcasting station in the localized area.

If the fake S O S were repeated at various intervals the job would be easier. Through special apparatus, and by triangulation, the FCC men could locate the sender in short order.

Transmission of a fake distress signal is punishable by a maximum $10,000 fine and two years imprisonment.

DR. WILLIAMS TO BE HEARD SUNDAY

Ohio Northern President Will Speak At First Presbyterian Church

Dr. Robert Williams, president of Ohio Northern university at Ada, O., who will occupy the pulpit of First Presbyterian church Sunday morning, Aug. 6, will arrive here today to be the week-end house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joel S. McKee of Edison avenue.

Probably one of the best speakers any New Castle audience has ever been privileged to hear, Dr. Williams is expected to address a representative community throng on Sunday.

The city remembers him as the principal speaker of the industrial testimonial dinner which the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored in the spring of 1987. He impressed a large community crowd on that occasion.

President John P. Brinton of the Junior Chamber announced today that his organization will attend the 11 o'clock service in a body.

Members will meet at the corner of North Mercer and Falls, near The Castleton, and proceed to the church from there.

Accompanying Dr. Williams here for the week-end will be Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Sausley of Ada, friends of Dr. Williams and the McKees.

ESCAPING GAS IS CAUSE OF ALARM

children since the family was stripped of their fortune and forced to flee from their home in Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, after the Nazi occupation. They became a family without a country, he said.

Langer said German authorities had confiscated his textile plant valued at upwards of $1,000,000, and had taken away his home and all his possessions. He said he and his wife managed to salvage about $8,000 from their fortune. The family obtained a six months' visitors' visa and came to the United States on July 1.

Came To Chicago

The Langers came to Chicago about two weeks ago and took an apartment. Yesterday the mother left home about one p. m., with the children, saying they were going to the zoo.

A few hours later Mrs. Langer registered at the Congress Hotel in downtown Chicago as "Mrs. Della Frank" of New York City. A clerk said she asked pleasantly for a "light, airy room." She was given one on the thirteenth floor.

Later the mother and children appeared in the lobby and Mrs. Langer mentioned to a hotel employe that the children were happy because they were going to see their father today.

Then, shortly before midnight, the tragedy occurred. Two young men passing the hotel on its Michigan Boulevard side narrowly escaped being struck by the woman's body as it hurtled to the sidewalk just before the two children.

The youngsters still were breathing when picked up but were pronounced dead when taken to a hospital. The mother died instantly.

Both boys were clad in sun suits. Police said this, in addition to the facts beds in the hotel room had been occupied, led them to believe the boys may have been asleep when their mother carried them to the window.

BLOODSHED STOPS WITH MARTIAL LAW

tary authority" over Kremmling and although this strike-embattled district.

General Richardson said he had been forced to take the unusual precautions following renewed clashes of gunfire and reported cases of intimidation of union workers.

The commander said he did not know when work could be resumed on the dam, but that if the strikers and the Warner Construction Company, Chicago contractors on the project, wanted to negotiate he would see to it that nothing interferred with their talks.

Demands of the strikers, members of five American federation of Labor unions, include a closed shop and a wage contract. The strike was called July 12 and the project remained shut down until a back-to-work group restored operations temporarily on Wednesday, precipitating the fighting.

General Richardson told the governor his new orders were issued after he had stopped and disarmed an automobile procession of townspeople who were rounding up union workers and ordering them to leave town at gun point.

Stops Cars

The guard commander said he stopped the caravan of five cars, led by city marshall Chauncey Van Pelt, who had deputized the men. In the cars he found 15 guns and a quantity of liquor, Richardson said.

"Liquor and guns don't mix in a situation like this," Richardson told the townspeople and he ordered his men to confiscate every gun seen. This action came after a score of shots echoed through the town last night.

The renewed gunfire was the first since five striking workers and two bystanders were felled by intermittent firing near the scene of the massive dam project Wednesday night. One of the strikers who was injured will lose the sight of one eye, and his condition is critical, hospital authorities said.

Meanwhile, National Guardsmen had moved into the camp site at the dam and were welcomed by a group of strikers who had been trapped between two bands of armed non-strikers who had been deputized, the guards immediately relieved all men of their guns.

"Thank God, you're here," one of the besieged strikers exclaimed. "We were about to be shot down like dogs."

The Colorado National Guard was called to the scene by Governor Carr Wednesday night after the situation at the strike-bound project appeared to be out of control.

Tokyo Says Ambassador To Stay In Washington

Despite Pressure Horinouchi To Remain During Discussion Of Present Problems

(International News Service)

TOKYO, Aug. 4.—Pressure by powerful Japanese groups to recall Ambassador Kensuke Horinouchi from Washington was admitted officially Thursday, but the Foreign Ministry said the demands would not be met.

"We do not plan to recall Mr. Horinouchi while we are still confronted with American-Japanese problems," a spokesman for the Foreign ministry said.

"Mr. Arita (Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita) will not make any concessions to certain groups which desire the ambassador to return home."

Authoritative sources said Horinouchi would not return to Tokyo even if American Ambassador Joseph C. Grew remains in the United States.

A spokesman for the navy at the same time announced the blockade of the Pearl river leading to Canton from Hong Kong, would be lifted shortly as military operations around Canton had been completed.

A spokesman for the navy said, however, that shipping of third powers would be permitted to carry only daily necessities to the foreign concessions in Canton, and the blockade would be reimposed "whenever strategic necessity arises."

With the declaration that Anglo-Japanese conversations over the Tientsin blockade are not "hopless," the official Japanese news agency Domei today cited authoritative sources as dismissing Anti-British agitation on the ground that it merely represents "a spontaneous manifestation of national sentiment."

To consider closer relations with Germany and Italy, the five key ministers of the cabinet, including Arita, were due to meet Thursday.

War office and general staff officers met last night and, it was reported, agreed to press the government for more than the "limited alliance" with the Axis powers which the government agreed on last month. Predictions said Lieut. Gen. Seishido Itagaki, war minister would recommend greater unity with Rome and Berlin at today's meeting.

Acronyx—that's where the shoe pinches.

An acronyx is an ingrowing toenail.

It occurs on either side of the large toe or second toe.

Many persons trim their toenails too close.

The exposed nail bed is tender and may become infected.

Pus forms, granulation tissue develops, infection starts.

The swelling increases and more pain follows.

An ingrown toenail can incapacitate a person for weeks.

Various treatments are used for this condition.

Some doctors resort to a slight operation.

Learn to cut the toenails correctly. Straight across is the proper way.

Five Carrots Are Grown From Single Seed By Scott Cox

Short Danver Family Produces Quintuplets At Harbor Road Residence

Canada has nothing on us now, for Scott Cox, of the Harbor road, found a perfect set of quintuplets at his home Thursday. The find was of five little members of the short danver family, one of the better known varities of that garden food, the carrot.

Mr. Cox found the freak of nature in his garden and was mighty surprised to find not just one carrot at the end of the stem he was pulling, but five perfect ones.

The carrots resembled a human hand in shape, with four growing in a straight row, and the other one growing out in front of the others. The vegetables measured about three inches in length and were about one inch in diameter.

According to local gardeners, this is indeed a freak, for oftentimes one may find two carrots growing from one seed and one stalk, but seldom does the number ever pass three.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Radio didn't crash the press gallery at the National Capitol, but it obtained separate and equal accommodations with the press under the big top. The privilege finally obtained was in line with a century of similar experience. Access to news and liberty to distribute it, while written into the Constitution, was not come by easily in this country. There was plenty of attempted censorship in the early days of Washington news coverage, much intrusion by lobbyists and schemers, much overt and subtle interference by the government and by powerful interests.

But, in a progress of both evolving and fighting over a period of more than 100 years, the main news fount of America is safeguarded in in a quasi-legal system as institutional as the unwritten British constitution. The system is unique among the government's of the world. The new air reporter is now the heir to the gleanings of mere ground reporters who insisted on their rights. America isn't such a young country after all. Its democracy has deep roots—or, to change the figure, sufficient momentum to carry it through change and adoption, even such amazing change as talking news instead of writing it.

It was in the Twenty-Fifth Congress, in 1838, that the Senate first granted floor privileges to newspapermen. Up to that time, reporters had lurked around corridors, button-holing congressmen, gleaning what they could from the Congressional Record, gumshoeing around the outskirts of the legislative mill, in the dark of the moon, trying desperately to keep the people of the young republic informed about what their statesman were doing. The above concession by the Senate was at first only for Washington correspondents, but later in the year was granted to out-of-town correspondents.

Paul J. McGahan, Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer, reviews this early history in a report which was printed in the Congressional Record. As in most advances of this kind, the supposed victory was just an opening skirmish. Restrictions, attempted censorship and efforts to doctor the news continued spasmodically, but the floor privilges were retained.

James Gordon Bennett, the elder, a rough- and-ready battler who enjoyed a fight with no holds barred, finally chalked up a notable victory over the news obstructionists. Arriving in Washington in 1839, as correspondents for the New York Herald, he stepped into some fast milling with Senator Southard, President pro tempore of the Senate who tried to bar reporters from the use of Senate facilities. The fight went on for several years with repeated gains for the "letter writers," as correspondents were then called.

In 1856, a Senate resolution gave the reporters the exclusive use of certain seats in the Senate gallery. Privileges, rights and immunities of the press in its legitimate pursuits of news were further established and clarified in 1873.

While "eternal vigilance' is the price of liberty," it looks as if the battle has finally been won. If so, the newspapermen may pride themselves on the fact that they not only fought but assumed responsibility. As they cut loose from the ball and chain of Congressional interference they established and maintained rigid standards and requirements of their own.

The press gallery isn't safe for lobbyists or fixers. If you think there is anything loose or casual about a working ticket to the Capitol press coop, just try to get it with anything short of the fullest certification of your credentials. You have to prove up to the hilt that you are on shift for a daily newspaper; that you are writing and printing news copy and that you represent a real newspaper and not a "phony" with a lobbyist or propaganda subsidy.

There has been no instance that I can recall of a Washington correspondent abusing his privilges. Their success in getting free of congressional interference has been due to the fact that they first put their own house in order, organized to do their own job honestly and effectively, and demanded and got their constitutional rights.

Here is a small but tremendously important zone of self-government which has been gained and defended by contributing something very definite to democratic processes as well as demanding a right. Is there in this a possibly helpful suggestion for pressure groups who traditionally demand but never contribute

PEONY PLANTING TIME IS AUGUST TO OCTOBER

The most popular time for planting peonies is from August until the last of October. It is better to plant them early so that new feeding roots may be produced before top growth develops in the spring.

If new divisions are purchased from reliable nurserymen or plantsmen, they may have one to five buds or "eyes". In planting such divisions, set them at least 3 inches below the surface level in sandy soil or two inches in heavy soil.

Manure or fertilizer must not come in contact with the divisions but it is important to work the soil in and around the roots so that no air spaces will be present.

When old clumps of peonies are transplanted they are cut into pieces with a shap knife or hatchet, or broken apart by hand. It is essential to have three to five buds or "eyes" on each division. Planting is done the same as for new divisions.

While peonies prefer a heavy soil, they will thrive in any well-drained soil. Preparations calls for digging the soil 18 to 24 inches deep and enriching it with well-decomposed barnyard manure, preferably horse or cow manure. Soil low in lime will need 2½ pounds of hydrated lime or 5 pounds of ground limestone to 100 square feet. Five pounds of ground bonemeal to 100 square feet may be applied at planting time.

WHEN TO MOVE PULLETS DECIDED BY CONDITIONS

When it is time for pullets to go from range to house the matter is largely an individual flock problem.

In July and August one poultryman may not have sufficient room for housing many pullets since his hens still will be laying well. Another poultryman may have houses which are not sufficiently well ventilated or insulated to provide comfortable quarters.

If the poultry plant contains room and the quarters are cool and adequately ventiliated, the pullets may be moved as soon as they start production. In many instances however, the early pullets will be more comfortable on range during the hot months even though production may reach 50 per cent.

Poultrymen should avoid abrupt changes in moving pullets to the laying houses, since sudden drops in production will result if the pullets are laying heavily on the range. The pullets will be distributed least if they are caught at night, put in coops, and then placed in the laying pens early in the morning.

QAUALITY MILK DEMANDS CAREFUL DAIRY METHODS

Samples from the cans of 50 patrons of a certain milk plant were studied at one county-wide milk show conducted late in April by Ivan Parkin, Pennsylvania State College extension dairymen. Of the 50, five were satisfactory as far as flavor was concerned. 21 tasted of feed, 12 cowy, four flat, three unclean and one each musty-unclean, musty-bitter, salty, bitterpuckery and of foreign matter. When attention is given to the problem of producing wholesome milk, the dairymen must think in terms of the owner, the cows, their surroundings, the utensils, the methods of handling the herd, and of the cooling and care of the product.

Many milk plants in the state would make a better showing than this one did if they were paid a similar surprise visit, Parkin believes but the results indicate that high quality milk is produced only as a result of eternal vigilance on the part of the producer. His problem is so involved that difficulty arises in considering all angles at once.

In this particular case, sediment scores ranged from 5 to 9.25 out of a possible 10. Dirt taken from the samples consisted of hay, staff, manuure, hairs, lint and bedding. Bacteria numbers ranged from 1,200 to 3,000,000 per cc. or or 38 to 46 drops. Three million is not an inordinately high bacteria count, Parkin says.

Rapid cooling is the best method of keeping milk in a wholesome condition once it has been produced in a cleanly fashion, he emphasizes. In some of these particular samples, there was evidence of improper cooling. Milk in 10-gallon cans requires eight hours to cool from 90 to 50 degrees in zero air. It requires 13 hours to drop to 50 degrees in air that is 10 degrees above zero. These figures show that air is a good cooling medium for milk, because it must be reduced to about 50 degrees to make bacterial action practically cease.

Water is a good cooling medium either if iced or cooled by a refrigerating unit. From 40 to 45 pounds of ice per can of milk are required, or 1 to 1½ kilowatt hours of electricity to chill and agitate the water in a cooling tank.

TIMELY GARDEN HINTS

Fall spinach, leaf lettuce for fall use, early maturing radishes, and the so-called 60-day turnips, such as Purple Top, White or Yellow Globe, may be planted in early August.

When the vegetables are cultivated the last time or in space vacated by harvesting, Italian or Domestic ryegrass may be sown for a cover crop now. The rate of seeding is 1 pound to 2,000 square feet with a light covering of soil. For September and October seeding, rye is the preferred cover crop.

SAVE VEGETABLE VITAMINS FOR THE HEALTH'S SAKE

The good old summer time may mean picnics, swimming, and good times to many of us, but it also means a time for us to give our families plenty of those fleeting vitamins, says Miss Julia Markle, Lawrence County Home Economics Extension representative.

Look out into the garden and there we will find delicious fresh vegetables loaded with the vitamins we need to make us "healthy, wealthy and wise." It's a shame most of us through poor care of vegetables rating A-plus in the garden make them become D-minus by the time they reach our dinner table.

If we wish to save as much of the vitamins as possible, we pick the vegetables only a short time before using them. Instead of allowing the beans to stay in the basket on the back porch, put them in a cool or cold place and save the vitamins.

The best way to get the full amount of the vitamins from vegetables, is to eat them raw. Raw vegetable salads are especially good this time of year to pep up jaded appetites. Practically any raw vegetables may be included in a mixed salad bowl. Have the vegetable cold and crisp and add the dressing the last minute, Miss Markle urges.

We cook vegetables in their skin if we wish to save the vitamins. This, of course, is not practical for some vegetables. Recent work on vitamins shows that short rapid cooking retains more vitamins than long cooking, as steaming and baking. Soda and other alkalines often used in cooking vegetables destroy the vitamins. Since many vitamins are soluble in water, it is well to use only a small amount of boiling salted water.

The vitamins soluable in fat, as A and D, cause very little worry when preparing and cooking vegetables. Vitamin B is fairly stable to cooking but soda destroys this vitamin. Curiously enough, vegetables containing B-1 lose less of this vitamin when fried than when boiled. Vitamin B-2 is not lost by cooking but soda destroys it.

Vitamin C is easily lost by long cooking and by the use of soda. Acid seems to help preserve this vitamin, while copper is most destructive. This vitamin is most fleeting because it is destroyed by the oxygen of the air. When practical, if we cut our vegetables with scissors rather than with a knife we will help to keep some of this vitamin. Chopping, or grinding vegetables breaks the cell walls and makes it easier for the vitamins to escape. Leaving vegetables whole gives us more vitamin C in our vegetables. Frying, baking, and steaming destroys this vitamin, while cooking vegetables for a short time in rapidly boiling water seems to be best.

"Let's go out into the garden and gather our vitamins. It's now up to us to see that these rich vitamin foods still rate "A plus" when we place them on the dinner table, Miss Markle concludes.

Japs Plan Joining Italo-German Axis

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Aug. 4—Steps looking toward Japanese adhesion to the Italo-German military alliance were taken in Tokyo today coincident with a new outburst of anti-British rioting.

As 25,000 yelling, banner-waving Japanese milled about the British embassy in defiance of Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie's warning that serious consequences may result, Premier Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma called in his military and naval advisers for an extraordinary conference.

Deficiency Bill Now Only Obstacle To Adjournment

Commodity Credit May Be Restored

House Calendar Cleaned Save For Routine Bills—May Adjourn Saturday Night

TOO MANY INCREASES MAY BRING DEADLOCK

(International News Service)

Congress evinced economy sentiment since start of present session, and feeling was climaxed with rejection of President's lending program and house action slashing last deficiency appropriations bill from $215,000,000 to $54,000,000. As a result, the bill tangled adjournment plans because departmental chiefs desperately strove to restore cuts in the senate.

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Congressional plans for adjournment by tomorrow night hinged today on senate hopes for speedy handling of the third deficiency bill, a measure cut from $215,000,000 to $54,000,000 by the house.

All other legislative obstacles to quitting Saturday evening were swept away when the house decided they would not seek action on pending amendments to the wage-hour law.

In Sub-Committee

The deficiency bill was in the hands of a senate appropriations subcommittee headed by Senator Adam (D) Colorado, and cannot be reported to the senate before late this afternoon. Adams called his subcommittee together at a 9 a. m., meeting, and the full committee took up the bill at 11, but requests from a score of governmental department heads for restoration of deep cuts made by the house forewarned of time-consuming discussion ahead.

There were reliable indications that the $119,000,000 of commodity credit corporation funds deleted by the house from the deficiency bill would be restored by the committee. As for other cuts made by the house, prospects of returning the items to the bill were dim, but inevitably efforts to make the restorations, when the bill goes to the senate floor, will be made.

Nearly 100 government witnesses were heard by the Adams subcommittee when consideration of the deficiency bill was begun, and after a session lasting more than seven hours hearings were closed. This morning the subcommittee started voting on provisions of the bill.

If the senate restores any considerable portion of the money slashed by the house, fighting was in prospect when house and senate conferees meet to work out a compromise. If senate restorations are too large, prospects of house refusal to act on the bill at all was possible.

Dispute Amendments

Aside from the headaches involved in the deficiency bill's monetary totals, orders were filed for a number of amendments which, will provoke bitter disputes. It will take a two thirds majority of the senate to take these amendments under consideration, but the motions to take them up are debatable, and speeches will be made that take up time.

Outstanding amendments anticipated included a proposal for payment of prevailing wages on WPA projects by Senator McCarran (D) Nevada, the LaFollette-Wheeler amendment for cheap refinancing of farm mortgages, the Murray proposal for lifting the compulsory furlough provision of the WPA act, and the Pepper amendment to lift the ban on federal theater projects written into the WPA act.

Leaders hoped to hold debate on these proposals to a minimum, but could not be certain that any one might not provoke lengthy bickering on the senate floor. They were bending every effort to adjourn congress tomorrow night, but there was a chance that the program might yet run over into next Monday or Tuesday.

The house busied itself with routine bills, and was ready to adjourn at any time.

Thirty To Forty Is Dangerous Age

Most Mental Illness Develops In Persons Between Those Ages, Sweeney Reveals

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4.—There appears to be a greater probability of a person becoming mentally ill between the age of 30 and 40, than at any other age, according to an analysis of admissions to the state's nine mental hospitals, Secretary of Welfare E. Arthur Sweeny reported.

After the 40-year level, the probability of requiring care or treatment for the various forms of mental illness decreases gradually, but increases again at, and beyond, the age of 70.

Men last year become ill earlier in life than women. The greatest number of male admissions, 169, was reached in the 30 to 35-year group, while the greatest number of women patients were five years older.

Secretary Sweeny said the deductions were made from a study of the 2909 first admission patients who entered state institutions during the year ended May 31, last. There were 1522 males, and 1387 females seeking care or treatment in the department of welfare's hospitals at Allentown, Danville, Farview, Harrisburg, Norristown, Philadelphia, Torrance, Warren and Wernersville.

Johnson Will Be Legion Speaker

Former National Commander Will Be Principal Speaker At Williamsport Convention

(International News Service)

WILLIAMSPORT, Aug. 4.—Louis A. Johnson, assistant secretary of war, will be the principal speaker here in August at the east annual state convention of the Pennsylvania American Legion, it was announced by Harvey R. Bowman, convention chairman.

State Commander Frank E. Gwynn, of Allentown, notified Bowman today that Johnson, an infantry captain overseas during the World war and National Legion commander in 1932, has accepted an invitation to address the opening joint session of the legion and auxiliary, Aug. 10.

That will be the initial meeting of a three-day convention which is expected to attract 12,000 overnight guests and 75,000 visitors for the period from Aug. 10 to Aug. 12.

He is to be guest of honor, with the state commander at the annual delegates' banquet that 1,200 auxiliary members will attend in the Williamsport Consistory hall, Thursday evening, and will also be honored at the reunion of past vice commanders, Thursday afternoon.

Says Parental Restraint Needed

Philadelphia Doctor Says Letting Children Have Own Way Has Been Carried Too Far

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—Dr. Winifred Bayard Stewart, clinical professor of neurology at Women's Medical college, believes it's time to reutrn to some of the old-fashioned methods of discipline in rearing children.

The idea of letting little Mary do about as she pleases so as not to hinder development of her personality has been carried too far, Dr. Stewart asserts, and a halt is needed.

"The old theory of respect for parents worked better than this modern theory," she asserted. "It is time to go back to the old customs."

British Unable To Aid Nationals

Chamberlain Admits Inability To Do Much In Far East Due To European Situation

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 4—Great Britain's virtual helplessness in the face of Japanese provocation in China was admitted by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today during a final debate before adjournment of the House of Commons for the balance of the summer.

His government "might find it necessary to send a fleet to Japanese waters under certain circumstances," the prime minister said but in the same breath he emphasized that any such action could only weaken Britain's already precarious position in Europe.

"We have undertaken the heaviest liabilities and commitments in Europe," he said.

"We cannot undertake the same in the far east."

The prime minister's doleful recitation of Britain's problems as a nation caught between fire on both sides came in reply to incessant demands that some forthright action be taken to show Japan that British residents of China cannot be slapped and stripped without appropriate retaliation.

"The help we can afford our Nationals (in China) at present is limited," Chamberlain said.

"Our fleet in the far east at present is inferior to Japan's.

"Under certain circumstances we might find it necessary to send a fleet out there. But we hope that situations will not arise. We would rather settle our differences by negotiation rather than the threat of force.

"It makes my blood boil to read of the things happening to the British in the far east.

"But, however, exasperated we may be over the events out there, even graver and nearer problems may have to be considered in the course of the next few months.

"We must conserve our forces to meet any emergency that might arise."

Chamberlain rejected suggestions that Britain follow the example of the United States and denounce the Anglo-Japanese treaty of commerce and amity.

"Such action" he said, "would have no immediate effect."

Tension was high in the house as Chamberlain made his statement, for members, assembling for the final session before recessing until October 3 had read of a third violent demonstration before the British embassy in Tokyo.

Do You Remember?

Compiled And Presented For Publication In The News By Fred B. Sankey, President Of Old Timer's Day Association

Old Timers Day Cascade Park, Wednesday, August 16, 1939.

Perhaps the greatest depression we ever had in New Castle was in 1872 when the P. L. Kimberly Iron Works paid the workmen in paper scrip—there was no money available. The scrip read "Six months after date the P. L. Kimberly Iron Works Co. promise to pay to bearer $2.00". This scrip passed as real money for the purchase of groceries, meat and other necessities of life.

The Neshannock Iron Co. was established in 1872 by Geo. L. Reis, W. E. Reis and P. L. and G. A. Kimberly, and the iron shipped to Harrisburg where it was made into steel rails. The Crowther Iron Co. "Clara Furnace," was built in 1873 for the manufacture of pig iron and Bessemer steel metal. Leander Raney was manager. Mr. Crowther, the founder, is survived by Miss Clara Crowther of this city.

In 1873 the New Castle Iron Works commenced operation. R. W. Cunningham, president; Wm. Patterson, treasurer. In 1875, Bradley, Reis & Co. purchased the works and employed 150 men.

In 1872 the Etna Iron Co. was purchased by Samuel Kimberly and others. On Samuel Kimberlys death his son, P. L. (Pete) Kimberly, associated with Edward N. Ohl, and Alexis W. Thompson took over the management. After its absorption by Republic Iron & Steel Co., Mr. Thompson went to Chicago about 1899, and became president of Republic Iron and Steel up to the year 1905, when he affilliated with Inland Steel Co. as its president.

O. H. P. Brown came here in 1872 and with Samuel S. Hamilton started the Brown & Hamilton dry goods store in 1878, doing a successful business for many years. They bought the store from J. H. Gilliland. O. H. P. Brown married Rose Phillips, daughter of John T. Phillips, and was the father of Oliver Phillips Brown, Mrs. R. B. Jameson, Mrs. C. R. Balph, Mrs. John S. Connery and Frederick V. Brown.

Samuel S. Hamilton was the father of Mrs. John A. Byers, Mrs. Donnell F. Hewett of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. S. H. Smith of La-Jolla, Cal.

Elijah: A Life Of Courage

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

"The Lord is far from the wicked; but He heareth the prayer of the righteous."—Proverbs 15:29.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Aug 6. is I Kings 18:1-46, the Golden Text being Proverbs 15:29. "The Lord is far from the wicked; but He heareth the prayer of the righteous.")

TODAY'S LESSON is about Elijah the prophet whose courage and faith in God were very strong. He lived in the day of the wicked king, Ahab, who was one of the worst kings of Israel and whose wife, Jezebel also was a bad person. Both worshipped Baal instead of Jehovah.

Because of his wickedness, Elijah stood before Ahab and told him that there would be no more rain or dew for as many years as he (Elijah) said. That made Ahab very angry, of course, and the Lord told Elijah to flee and hide himself by the brook called Cherith, and to drink of the water of the brook and He would send the ravens to feed him. Elijah did as he was told, and sure enough the ravens came at morning and night with meat and bread for him.

When the stream went dry, the Lord told Elijah to go to the gate of a certain city and he would meet a widow woman who would give him food. Sure enough, when Elijah arrived at the city gate he saw a poor woman gathering sticks to make a fire. He told her she was to give him food, but she said she hardly had enough for herself and son. The prophet told her not to fear, for there surely would be plenty for all. So she shared what she had with him, and there was plenty of food for many days.

Child Becomes Ill

Then the widow's son was taken ill and apparently died, and she was very much distressed, as you may imagine, and felt maybe it was Elijah's fault. "What have I to do with thee, O man of God?" she said to him; "art thou come unto me to call my sin to remembrance, and to slay my son?"

Elijah took the child from his mother and carried him to his own room, and there he pleaded with God to restore the child. Then he spread his body over the child's three times and prayed, and life came again to the boy and Elijah gave him again to his mother.

Then word came to Elijah that he should go back to Ahab, and the Lord would send rain to the earth, for there was grievous druoth and famine in the land. It took courage for Elijah to go back and face the king, who was very angry with him because of the drouth and famine. However, he did as the Lord bid him. Now Obadiah, governor of Ahab's house, "feared the Lord greatly," and when the wicked Jezebel would have killed all the prophets of the Lord, he took 100 of them and hid them in a cave. Ahab bid Obadiah to take one section of the land and visit all the brooks and springs and find if perchance one still had a little water in it to keep some of the livestock from perishing, and he would visit others. On his journey Obadiah met Elijah, who said to him, "Go tell thy lord, lo, Elijah is here." Poor Obadiah was afraid to do this, as he knew how angry Ahab was with Elijah, and he reminded Elijah that he had hidden the prophets and he thought this was a poor way to reward him, as he was sure Ahab would kill him if he mentioned Elijah.

King Meets Elijah

Elijah promised to appear personally before Ahab, and so Obadiah overcame his fear and went to meet the king and tell him of Elijah. When Ahab saw Elijah he growled: "Is it thou, thou troubler of Isarel?" Elijah told him it was not he, Elijah, but rather the king, by his ungodly ways, that had brought all the trouble on his people. Then he told the king to gather all the priests of Baal and tell them to prepare two bullocks for an offering, one for themselves and one for him.

All the people were summoned, and two altars built. On one Baal's priests laid their offerings, and on the other Elijah laid his, and he dug a trench around his altar. The priests of Baal called unto their god from morning until noon, but nothing happened. Then Elijah mocked them. And when the evening came he told the people to bring water and three times he poured it over the bullock and the wood on top of the altar, and in the trench, until all was soaked, and then he called on the Lord to send fire to consume it.

Such a fierce fire descended from on high that the wood, the bullock, even the stones and the water were consumed or dried up in the heat. Then all the people fell upon their faces and said, "The Lord, He is the God," and Elijah told them to slay every one of the prophets of Baal.

Then he told Ahab to rise, eat and drink, for there was a sound of abundant rain. And Elijah went to the top of Carmel and cast himself down upon the earth and put his face between his knees, telling his servant to look toward the sea. The servant saw nothing, and Elijah told him to look again, even seven times. At the seventh time there was a small cloud, which quickly grew larger until the "heaven was black with clouds and wind, and there was a great rain."

But Jezebel was so infuriated at the slaughter of the priests of Baal that she would have killed Elijah, so that he was obliged to again flee for his life.

CROSLEY "THE CAR OF TOMORROW"

NOW ON DISPLAY

A Smart, Dependable, Thrifty Car That Will Serve Every Practical Purpose of an Ordinary Sized Car

SEE IT TODAY!

ROOMY—This car will amaze you with its roominess when you sit in it with 3 other people. Elimination of running board is largely responsible for this. Rear seat can be taken out, making ample room for luggage or delivery of packages.

SMART—Clever in design, smart in appearance, there is nothing freakish about this automobile. There is really nothing that differs radically from other cars except its compactness, its light weight. The 3-ply convertible top can be put down in less than a minute, changing the car from a snug closed car to a gloriously free open car. Because of the extreme simplicity of this operation, we predict the top will be down 90% of the time.

SAFETY IN STRENGTH—The Crosley is a sturdy automobile and although the size and weight have been scaled down, strength has not been sacrificed. There is the same margin of safety in strength that is found in conventionally sized cars. For example, the airplane-type brakes are powerful enough to stop a car 4 times the size of the Crosley.

ECONOMY IN SIMPICITY—Remember the Crosley had no precedent to follow. Started from a drawing board it was not bound by the necessity of using old tools, patterns, machinery. Consequently Crosley engineers were able to attain absolute simplicity in design. No fancy expensive gadgets—just dependable and economical transportation!

BUG WRECKS CAR

(International News Service)

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho—When an insect hit him in the eye while he was motoring through Idaho, Robert W. Collins of Portland, Ore., lost control of his automobile and the machine turned over six times before it stopped in a ditch. Collins, with only a slight scratch on his face, crawled from the wreckage, picked the bug from his eye and covered the rest of his journey by train.

GETS TICKET IN PORTLAND; SENDS $2 FROM HOLLAND

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore.—What America needs is more people like William Zanneveld, bulb grower and exporter of Sassenheim, Holland, declared Portland police.

When Zanneveld was visiting in Portland, he drove a rented car, giving a New York address. Local police tagged the car for over-parking and sent a routine form letter explaining the violation to Zanneveld's New York address.

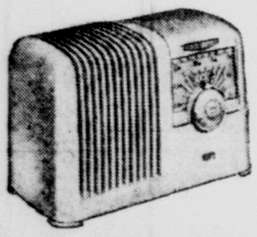

The letter was forwarded to Holland. Zanneveld promptly sent a $2 bill to Portland police apologizing for the infraction and asked for a receipt, "just to keep things on a business plane."

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

INTELLIGENT PARENTS CO-OPERATION AIDS DOCTOR IN TREATMENT OF NEPHRITIS

Yesterday I advised a diet of milk in the treatment of nephritis. In most acute cases the patient is best started off on a quart of milk a day, and no other food. A specimen of urine should be examined daily, and as the kidneys show improvement, the diet can be increased.

I find it better to leave specific instructions as to how much milk to give because it is easier to get instructions followed that way. Most mothers can be depended on to do everything for their sick child, but sometimes you have to go a little further. For instance when I was first practicing and left things more to people's judgment than I do now, I had a little girl who deve'oped pneumonia and then nephritis. I asked the mother to give her daughter as much milk as she would drink and as often as she asked for it.

I visited her every day and was told each time I inquired that she was taking her milk. However the child seemed to get weaker and weaker, and finally I asked the mother pointedly how much milk she gave at a time and exactly when she gave it. Her reply was, "Oh, she had half a glass the day before yesterday." When I protested, the mother argued that I had told her to give the child as much milk as she wanted when she wanted it. So since the child hadn't expressed any desire for milk, the mother just hadn't given any. When I put the child on a stipulated quart a day, there was an immediate improvement.

Milk alone is given for varying lengths of time. Each day a specimen of the urine is taken and when it becomes normal again, the food can be increased. Even then the additions to the diet must be carefully chosen. I usually counsel that the first addition be a pudding rich in carbohydrates. When this is added, the result should be carefully checked to see if there is any reaction. If the kidneys handle this successfully, or if they are only upset for a day or so, then other things may be added to the diet.

Parents do well to remember, though, that even if the child appears to have recovered, they should strictly follow the doctor's advice in the matter of diet. He will place article after article on it. A mother often thinks that if she could give her child some meat it would give him strength quicker than anything else. The doctor has a good reason for leaving meats off the diet until the very last because meats have some very complex proteins in their structure, and the kidneys must be completely well before they are called on to handle them.

The usual return of the urine to normal requires about a month. During this time the child must be kept in bed. About the time the urine is completely clear and the diet is complete again, we make an attempt to get rid of the center of infection which caused the trouble in the first place. Usually the removal of tonsils, or washing out a sinus, is what is needed. After this operation, there will be a temporary return of the original evidence of nephritis and then a return to normal.

Regal Battles Terry Jackson

Punch Affairs Monday Night In The Arena Appear Inviting

PETE MISTO TO OPPOSE BLAYSAK

Having a ravenous appetite, the fistic hungry are awaiting Monday night when the Jefferson Athletic club will present a delicious pugilistic menu, the course consisting of eight punch affairs and among the 16 gladiators who will swap blows are Larry Regal, Butler, and Terry Jackson, Youngstown.

Larry is one of the most popular amateur middleweights yet to appear here and judging from the courageous stand Terry made against Billy Reale one week ago Monday night fans should see a barrel of action.

For two rounds and a half Reale and Jackson stood toe to toe and it was only exhaustion that brought down the Youngstown boy who reports he will be in better shape Monday.

Regal is one of the best punchers and also one of the most rugged of the youngsters who has shown here so fans may rest fully assured they will see a blow-for-blow battle as soon as the bell sounds.

Pete Misto of Youngstown who fought Mickey Sica of New York, only to lose by an eye-blinker will take on Freddie Blaysak of Homestead and Al Starevic of Youngstown, will tackle tough Sully Tonti of Midland.

The other bouts arranged follows:

Emil Cannell, New Castle vs Ralph Gerace, Rochester, 118.

Buster Lostetter, Homestead vs Buzz Mooney, Monaca; 126.

Chuck Arkett, New Castle vs Mike Wukas, Aliquippa; 140.

Ted Delarado, East Liverpool vs Bobby Bright, Homestead; 145.

Al Peterson, East Liverpool vs Frankie Moran, New Castle; 128.

The docket is well balanced and fans can expect to see plenty of action when the bell rings. It may be reiterated that all of the fistic shows have been good and the coming card looks as enticing as any yet staged.

Majeski-Anderson Star For Slovaks

Majeski Hits Ball Hard To Help Anderson Win His Eleventh Straight Victory

Bill Majeski's big war club smacked out a terrific 450-foot homer last night at Clifton Flats field in the second inning with a mate aboard and this gave the Slovaks the impetus to go ahead and win, and win they did over the K. Pulaski team after the latter team had hopped off to a 7 to 2 lead at the end of the second inning.

Leroy "Blondie" Anderson had the pitching assignment for the Slovaks and turned in his eleventh straight win as he left the Oaklanders down with six hits and fanned four men, after a shaky start in the first two innings.

In the fifth inning Majeski strode to the plate again and banged out a triple to deep left that scored Wrona from first and a few seconds later raced home with the winning run when Pop Adams doubled. Brownie Ostrosky was the losing pitcher and was found for eight hits. The best for the Pulaskis in the hitting end of the game was Mateja with a triple. Chabak had two hits, both singles. Both teams had three miscues in the field. Eddie "Alabama" Kirol having all three of the Slovak errors, something unusual for this brilliant youngster.

The victory keeps the Slovaks in the runner-up spot to the Indies.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

Baseball bits—There isn't a town in the majors more desirous of copping a baseball title than Boston. Tom Yawkey, boss of the Redsox, several years ago, removed the band from his bank roll and started rebuilding the weak Beantown aggregation which ranked with the "pushovers". Having assembled a band of rugged baseballers, at an estimated cost of better than $4,000,000, Yawkey is sparing no expense in the hope of seeing his dream come true. During the wintry winds, Yawkey will remove the rubber band again, this time to do a little fixing around Fenway Park. The right field bleachers, some 402 feet away from home plate, will be brought in closer, mainly to aid Ted Williams, the prize rookie of the year. With a closer target to shoot at, Williams figures to break up many ball games. In other parks, where right field is shorter, Williams has been sensational all season. With Jimmy Foxx blasting em over the left field barrier, Yawkey figures his club will give it to their foes with double-barrels next season. . . . Any baseball record must end some day. Take the case of "Red" Ruffing. Since 1937, big Cholly hypnotized the hard hitting Detroit Tigers. The Bengals finally shattered that mark Tuesday. Look for Derringer's spell over the Phillies to end soon. The Cincy ace has been licking the lowly MacPhailures since early 1937. The Phils will get Paul on one of his off days and smash the jinx. . . .

This and that—Petey Sarron, the only Assyrian to wear the featherweight crown, narrowly escaped serious injuries in an auto mishap a few days ago. Sarron, who fought in Pittsburgh recently, is well known here. . . . Davey O'Brien, who drove collegiate gridders nuts with his bullet like heaves, will wear good old No. 8 on the back of his uniform this fall, the same numeral he wore as a T. C. U. player. As a member of the Philly Eagles, the half pint grid wizard will find pro-ball a more rugged spot and more intricate. If O'Brien can solve the pro style, fans throughout the land will see as classy a player as ever donned a moleskin. . . . Although "Jock" Sutherland will be missing from the coaching boxes, the former Pitt mentor will be as vitally interested in the grid sport as he has ever been. The genial Scot has signed a contract to do a series of grid broadcasts every Friday night during the pigskin parade. His job will be to pick the winners. All ears will be glued to radios as the well versed grid professor dishes out the dope over a Pittsburgh station. . . .

Local sport shorts—Fred Shaffer turned in another star-studded twirling job for Louisville, Tuesday night. The local blonde moundsman was rushed into the fracas to relieve Wagner, the Colonels' ace flinger. Shaffer limited the Toledo Mudhens to three hits in winning a 2-0 decision. . . . Norm "Scoots" Nelson is one of the busiest gents in town. With the New Castle high grid squad preparing for its perennial jaunt to Muddy Creek Falls, the genial faculty athletic manager faces a major task in preparing the camp for the husky lads. . . . Friend Nicholas R. Casillo, whose outdoor yarns have hit most of the popular sport mags, is vacationing in Alaska. Nick has just concluded a sojourn through Canada and is enroute to the land of the Eskimos. Wouldn't mind being with you Nick. . . .

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

One of the grandest gestures that has come to light in some time is that of the Rolling Rock Hunt Racing Association which decided to devote the proceeds from this year's steeplechase race meeting near Ligonier to the Industrial Home for Crippled Children, Denniston Avenue, Pittsburgh. Thousands of race-goers and lovers of the great outdoors annually go to this affair which will be held this year on Wednesday, October 11, and Saturday, October 14, and a sizeable sum is expected to be turned over to the management of this home which is now in its 36th year.

A program of eight races has been arranged for August 8 at Thistledown track near Warrensville, O., which will be known as New Castle and Sharon Day. The feature event of the day will be a $1,000 purse race in which the cream of the three-year olds stabled there will match speed at six furlongs. The secondary feature which also carries a $1,000 purse admits three-year olds and older to view for winning laurels in the one mile and one-sixteenth. Racing starts daily at 2:15 p. m. except Thursday, which will have twilight racing at 4:30 p. m.

Alice Marble's predictions to the contrary, Australia figures to win the Davis cup and keep it for some time. . . . Manager Joe McCarthy, of the Yankees giving thanks for Joe DiMaggio, especially after yesterday's performance against Tigers. . . . Opinion is divided on Sidney Wood's chances of winning the Southampton tenn tourney. . . . . Harold S. Vanderbilt's Vim one up on T. O. M. Sopwith's Tomahawk is centered in the Cowes regatta. . . . Henry Armstrong is finding it difficult to make 135-pound weight limit for his fight with Lou Ambers. . . . Helen Jacobs surges ahead in Maidstone tennis tourney.

Billy Conn, light-heavyweight champion of the world, and Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y., will meet in a return 15-round fight in Pittsburgh, September 25. Jake Mintz will cooperate with Mike Jacobs as the promoter. . . Fritzie Zivic is on the shelf. He has a severe injury involving the joints between the third and fourth lumbar vertebrae and between the fifth lumbar and the sacrum. That is why he cancelled his bout with Pete De Ruzza last Monday . . Geneva will open the grid season against Youngstown college in Youngstown, September 14. They will play October 21 at New Wilmington. . . . DiMaggio, Yankees; Foxx, Red Sox; Arnovich, Phils; Bonura, Giants; McQuinn, Browns, and Mize, Cardinals, are the leading six batters in order named. . . . Hal Fisher has quit as athletic director and basketball coach at Beaver high to become a hygiene instructor and guidance counselor at Oliver high school

The New Castle Fair will run August 22-25, according to A. C. Shoaff, secretary. He is preparing a good race program. Yesterday at Waynesburg, Rhythm took two heats in the 2:22 pace. Fayre Lady, Dr. Gratton and Maxine divided heats in the 2:12 to 2-18 handicap pace and Flight won the 2:22 trot in straight heats.

Nobils Indies Set For Clash

Softballers Confident Of Upsetting Baseballers Tonight At 5:45 O'Clock

CEDAR STREET IS SCENE OF BATTLE

One of the biggest galleries of the season is expected to gather at Cedar street field, tonight at 5:45 o'clock, to watch the Nobils softball team battle the strong Lawrence Indies baseball aggregation.

The unusual sport attraction, the first of its kind in this section of the country, should be loaded with thrills. The Nobils, second half leaders of the City Softball loop feel confident of scoring a triumph over the City Baseball circuit pace setters.

Followers of both sports will jam the Seventh Ward center for the clash. If a favorite must be named, the softballers get the call. Recently, in Indiana, a championship softball outfit scored a 3-0 verdict over a titular baseball club. For this reason, the Indies will be shortenders. The Indies are sure they will even the score. Managers "Hoss" Zidow, of the Indies, and Italo Amodie, of the Nobils, will shoot the works in the hope of grabbing a triumph.

Rules governing both sports will be intact. The baseball team will bat against a softball on the smaller diamond, while the softballers will swing at a baseball on the regulation size diamond.

DiMaggio Paces Attack Of Yanks

Hits Two Homers, Single, To Drive In Five Runs, In 12-3 Win, Losing Streak Snapped

PIRATES FOLD UP TO DODGERS TEAM

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Manager Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees today was giving many thanks for the presence in the champions' outfield of Jolting Joe DiMaggio, and with good reason.

Not only did Joe raise his average back to an even .400 with three hits out of five against the Detroit Tigers yesterday, but he unloaded two homers and a single to drive in five runs and pace his awakening mates to a 12 to 3 triumph, snapping a three-game losing streak.

Red Sox Win

Although Monte Pearson was reached for 11 hits by the Tigers, he found it easy to register his ninth victory of the year.

The Boston Red Sox, 7½ games behind in the American league race, ran over the Cleveland Indians, 17 to 6, with 19 hits. Boston sent 13 men to bat and scored nine runs in the eighth, Manager Joe Cronin getting two doubles.

Over in the National league the St. Louis Cardinals dropped the Bosotn Bees twice, 5 to 1 and 4 to 3, pulling up within 9½ games of the pacemaking Cincinnati Reds whose game with the New York Giants was rained out. Enos Slaughter rapped out two homers and Storm-Center Ducky Medwick rapped one in the St. Louis Cause.

Rookies Star

Two rookies—Outfielder Bill Nicholson with two triples and a single and Shortstop Bobby Mattick with a double and a single—starred for the Chicago Cubs as they turned back the Philadelphia Phillies, 9 to 6. Bill Lee tired in the eighth and was replaced, but he received credit for his 12th victory.

The Brooklyn Dodgers got 13 hits behind Tot Pressnell's eight-hit pitching to lick the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 1, and tie the idle Giants for fifth place with a .500 percentage.

Senators On Top

In the American league, Washington beat the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 5, as Outfileder George Case had a field day. Case got a single, double, triple and walk in five trips to the plate and stole three bases to lift his total to 37. Clint Brown, ace White Sox reliefer, made his 41st mound appearance as Chicago downed the Philadelphia Athletics, 9 to 7. He came in after Bob Johnson's seventh-inning single made the score 9 to 7. He got Frank to hit into a double play and kept the bases cleared in the last two innings.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL.

The grape crop will be very good this year . . . it seems at this point . . . a good chance to fill the fruit cellar with good grape juice . . . some no doubt will carry it a little further. It has been some time since a good grape crop has prevailed in this locality . . . and everyone is glad to see it back this season.

The rains this past week have slowed up the farmers . . . a good many were planning on thrashing oats but it will take a few good warm days to dry out the grain. A farmer must work when the weather is right . . . even if he is tired and needs a rest. Hard roads throughout the county have made it possible for him to get to town more frequently but he can't neglect his job . . . up at sunrise and he must work long after sundown. When does he buy in the summer time?

And on with our story of the County Commissioners . . . the C. C. have charge of most of the business transactions of the County, taking care of the bridges, buildings, roads and the like. They also sit on the Salary Board and in this way have control over a large portion of the money spent, so it seems that the first requirement is that the man possess simple honesty; that he knows the value of money. He must not be controlled by any outside interest which would benefit by transactions with the county.

Our County Commissioners at present have on hand a large amount of money and we should think of this in the coming election. It is dangerous, in the opinion of many, because it provides an opportunity to waste. For some reason this balance has been accumulated, why we don't know, but we feel that a statement should be issued by the candidates on the probable use this surplus is to be put: if it is for the purpose of paying off the County's indebtedness it should be earmarked and put aside for that purpose and not left in the general fund. These are just some of the thoughts that have been picked up around the county and we hope to give you more in the future.

Do you know how easy it is to use the classified ad page? Hundreds do . . . throughout the county. But there are others who have never used this page . . . not because they don't need it but because they have never tried its powers. Why not drop into the classified ad counter the next time you want to sell or buy . . . we feel sure your time won't seem wasted.

Stock Market Is Quiet Today

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—The stock market sold off in quiet dealings today. A few leaders slipped a point, but losses generally were restricted to minor fractions.

Volume in the first hour totaled only 160,000 shares, or about half of the same period yesterday.

The local list opened lower, then settled into a narrow groove through the remainder of the forenoon. A few utilities and rails bucked the downward trend.

Case dropped 2 points on an independent move, while Libbey-Owens-Ford, Philip Morris, Crucible Steel, Westinghouse Electric and Union Pacific each lost a point or more.

Elsewhere fractional declines were the rule, including U. S. Steel, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, General Electric, Du Pont, American Smelting, International Harvester, United Aircraft, Sears Roebuck and Standard Oil of N. J.

Chrysler converted a small loss into a similar gain late in the morning.

Medwick-Blades Give Versions Of Controversy

Medwick Says "Being Benched For Rookie Rawest Deal Ever"

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4.—Statements flew as fast as base hits Thursday in the wake of the display of temperament by outfielder Joe Medwick of the St. Louis Cardinals in Tuesday's game against the Boston Bees as Medwick, Owner Sam Breadon of the club and the Manager Ray Blades went to bat verbally.

Medwick, the National League's most valuable player in 1937, was removed from the game in the ninth inning. There were two out, and two balls and two strikes had been called on the batter. The game was stopped and Blades sent Lynn King to left field to replace Medwick. The latter threw his glove high in the air, kicked it and walked off the field. On the next pitch the batter was retired and the Cardinals won the game, 4 to 3.

Medwick Comments

Medwick, commenting on his removal from the game, said today:

"I think it was the rawest deal I have received in my baseball career," and declared, "They're only trying to show me up before the fans in St. Louis."

"I'm dissatisfied playing with the Cardinals," Medwick declared.

Said Breadon: "If Medwick wants to pop-off, I can't prevent it. Joe's been a great player on this team, but he must realize that the manager is running the club and not one player. I always support my manager. I'm behind Blades in this case."

Blades said, "My job is to win games, regardless of a player's temperament. I'm sorry to hear that Medwick is dissatisfied. There's no hard feelings between us. I made the change because I felt King is a faster fielder, a better thrower than Joe. I hold high regard for Medwick as a team man. I want to correct the rumor that I'm not on speaking terms with Joe. We talk about plays before every game."

ROYAL FAMILY IS NOT FADDY ABOUT FOOD SAYS BUYER

(International News Service)

LONDON.—The man who for a quarter of a century has been ordering food for the Royal Household today told the world that the British Royal Family isn't faddy about its food.

Harry Mercer, Comptroller of Supply, retiring after 42 years service with twenty-six medals given him by various monarchs, said:

"It's been a grand job, absolutely free from grumbles. The Royal Family have always eaten like any ordinary family, good, plain, English food. And they were not faddy. The butchers and bakers I ordered from never had any complaints.

"It has never been difficult to order for the Royal larder. I always bore in mind the good things I liked myself, just what ordinary people like."

Mercer worked under five English sovereigns.

Boro Council In Special Session

Approve Tax Collector's Bond Discuss Purchae Of New Trucks

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 4.—Members of the borough council of Ellwood City met in special session for an hour last evening to decide about the purchase of two new trucks for the city, oiling the streets that are not paved, the firemens' convention and the tax collector's bond.

A statement from Tax Collector H. E. Wilson from January 1, 1939 to June 30, 1939, was as follows: The balance due when Mr. Wilson took over in January was $14,506.07. Up to June 30 he has collected a total of $5,050.39, leaving a balance of $9,456.68. Members approved his new bond on the first and final reading at last night's meeting.

There was considerable discussion concerning the purchase of two new trucks for the borough. The discussion opened with a motion to throw out bids again and re-advertise. In the succeeding discussion, however, it developed that the truck already in use has passed inspection and seems adequate for the needs of the borough, inasmuch as it has come to the attention of Engineer Lowell Monroe that the W.P.A. will not take on any new work in Ewing Park after finishing the administration building and complete the tennis courts.

The matter of business conditions on the subway in the Young building since the city prohibited parking on that side of the street, came up for comment. The matter was referred to members of the street committee and Burgess McGlincy.

Regarding the oiling of the streets, Engineer Monroe reported that the oil had not as yet been delivered but it was expected in most any day.

Regarding the firemens' convention here all next week, Secretary Moyer announced that he had received a communication from the committee stating that members of various fire departments would act on police duty, aiding in directing traffic etc., after which the members adjourned until their regular August meeting on the 10th.

Girl Scouts Enjoy Camp Even In Rain

In Spite Of Rain Preparations Were Made For Large Camp Fire To Be Built Tonight

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 4—In spite of the pouring rain yesterday, the customary camp routine went on as usual in the Girl Scout encampment at Camp Thompson. One of the scouts will report the day in her own words as follows:

"Rain poured all day Thursday. During the morning the counselors went through the drizzle from cabin to cabin to lead the classes. Singing predominated, a few brave campers donned bathing suits and skidded down the hill to swim. Phyllis Barkley entertained the Gypsy Knob unit with her falsetto Pop Eye voice. Still the fear of the state inspectors' arrival aided the counselors in demanding clean cabins. When sunset arrived once more the inspectors had not come. Preparations for individual unit cook-outs were quickly changed. Kabobs became mere slices of cheese in buns. No one minded, however, each unit traded food stuffs until a general feast-like atmosphere prevailed. By twilight it was dry enough outdoors to dance and sing. Campfire was in the form of a Solomon Gundy party. Awards for the highest number of points were given to "Chirp" and Doris Schrock.

This morning preparations for visitors' night were completed and campfire will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Terrace Avenue School Holds Its 14th Reunion

Schooldays at Terrace Avenue school three decades ago—in 1900, the year that South Side school building was opened—were lived over again Thursday evening when men and women who were classmates then gathered at Cascade Park for their 14th annual reunion.

Forty attended the park celebration and leaders of the old class believe they'll boost attendance twice as high when the 15th reunion takes place in 1940.

Participating in last night's dinner-program were pupils in (1900) of Terrace's sixth and sixth-and-a-half grades. Last night they recalled once more how they marched as youngsters in class formation from the Lincoln-Garfield building on Long avenue to the newly-furnished Terrace structure up on the hill. They'll never forget that, for it was a first-rate thrill!

William Withers of Struthers, O., president of the Terrace group, was re-elected for another year last night. Mrs. Andrew Dietterle again will be the secretary-treasurer, Jesse Gibson again will be picnic chairman next year and Mrs. I. W. Tate again will manage the table serving as she did this year.

About the flower-decorated tables last night were the following who came from out of town: President Withers and Mrs. Withers, Struthers; Mr. and Mrs. Mont Emerick, Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robinson, Youngstown; George Fleet of Farrell, and Mrs. B. I. Mach of Holidays Cove, W. Va.

The evening was spent informally.

New Legislation Increases Benefits To Widows, Children, And Disabled Men

ANNOUNCEMENT IS FROM RED CROSS

New legislation affecting widows and children of World war veterans under the recent act of July 19, 1939, is announced by Miss Margaret F. Bodenstein, executive secretary of the Lawrence county chapter of the American Red Cross. The following applies to widows and children of veterans where the veteran's was not due to service but where the veteran was receiving disability compensation of 10 per cent or more prior to his death:

All widows of deceased World war veterans who are at the present time receiving $22 a month are entitled to $30 a month from July 19, 1939. All widows of deceased World war veterans with one child who are now receiving $30 a month will now receive $38 a month. All widows of deceased World war veterans with children who are now receiving $56 a month will now receive $64 a month. All widows and children of deceased World war veterans where the veteran was receiving disability compensation prior to March 13, 1933, for disabilities of paralysis, paresis or blindness will be entitled to benefits under the act of July 19, 1939, if otherwise eligible.

Broaden Provisions

It is to be kept in mind the group is only eligible where the veteran was receiving monthly compensation prior to and including March 19, 1933.

All widows of deceased World war veterans who knew the veteran at the time of his death had a disability which the Veterans Administration considered due to service but was less than 10 per cent but for which compensation would have been payable had the disability been 10 per cent or more, these widows and children are now entitled to death compensation benefits.

The widows of veterans where the veteran's death was the direct result of war disabilities are also affected by the act of July 19, 1939.

Widows under 50 years of age who have been receiving $30 a month are to receive $38 monthly. Widows who are 50 years of age or over are to be increased from $37.50 to $45 monthly.

Under the act of July 19, 1939, all World war veterans who were receiving disability compensation prior to and including March 19, 1933, for paralysis, paresis and blindness, or who were helpless or bedridden and were discontinued under the economy act will again be compensable if they meet other qualifications of Public 141, as amended. Rates for veterans will be as previously paid under the World war veterans act except that if the disability is presumptively service connected the amounts payable are reduced to 75 per cent of the rate paid for direct service connection.

The law of July 19, 1939, also provides for hospitalization and domiciliary care for retired officers and re-enlisted men of the army, navy, marine corps and coast guard who have served honorably during a war period on the same basis as other war veterans. There has been a minimum charge in the past for retired officers and re-enlisted men which this law now eliminates.

An act approved June 21, 1939, extends to May 24, 1940, the period during which alien World war veterans may file application for naturalization under the same process as they have been since the World war, according to an announcement made by Miss Margaret F. Bodenstein, executive secretary of the American Red Cross, Lawrence county chapter.

Information regarding new legislation may be obtained from the Red Cross office, 39 N. Beaver street, telephone 5084.

Authorities In Cynthiana, Kentucky, Fear Mob Violence Against Allen

(International News Service)

CYNTHIANA, Ky., Aug. 4.—"I'm not afraid of anybody," stoically maintained Charles Allen, 70-year-old farmer, as authorities kept him under heavy guard in the Cynthiana jail.

Allen, who has confessed he killed Police Chief George M. Dickey, 78, last Saturday when the chief and a posse tried to oust him from a barn where he was barricaded with a 15-year-old girl, was returned to Cynthiana secretly after being kept for several days in the Lexington jail. Feeling had been high against Allen here and authorities feared mob violence.

The farmer had no comment on a suit filed by Miss Florence Dickey, daughter of the slain chief. The young woman sought $25,000 damages from the well to do Allen for the shooting, alleging that he "wrongfully, willfully, allegedly and unlawfully did shoot, wound and kill" her father.
